1st Sub. S.B. 10 was transmitted to the House for consideration.

Senator Bell read the following statement and requested that it be spread upon the pages of the Senate Journal.

“In 1986 the Utah Legislature passed the Liability Reform Act (“Act”). The fundamental principle of that Act was that no defendant should be “liable to any person seeking recovery for any amount in excess of the proportion of fault attributed to that defendant.” Section 78–27–38(3). In 1998, the Utah Supreme Court decided a case, Field v. Boyer, involving an assault by an unknown assailant in the Brickyard Plaza parking lot. The victim sued her employer and the mall owner. The Supreme Court held that while the Act covered intentional tortfeasors such as the assailant, the fact that he was unknown and thus not named as a defendant in the case prevented fault from being allocated to him under the Act. The next year, this Legislature amended the Act to fix the Field decision to allow unnamed and unknown parties such as the Field assailant to be listed on the allocation of fault form.

Since the 1999 amendment, parties and courts have had more experience with this law. Based on that experience and to make the process more fair, this amendment seeks to make procedural changes to the process and timing by which defendants notify plaintiffs of their intention to ask that unnamed persons be added to the allocation of fault form at trial.”
